Overall SFPUC Response to COVID

- Implemented major changes to keep employees and customers safe while maintaining 24/7 operations
  - Closed most in-person services
  - All office employees are working remotely full-time until at least June 2021
  - Onsite employees practicing daily health checks, social distancing, use of personal protective equipment, sanitation procedures
- Many SFPUC employees deployed as disaster service workers with City’s overall response
The pandemic has underscored how access to public utilities is vital to public health.

Beginning in March, we implemented a full moratorium on power and water shutoffs for delinquent payments.

- Also stopped assessing late fees or property tax liens.
- Moratorium currently effective through January 2021, but is likely to be extended.

As of end of September 2020, 1,850 customers would be shut off if the moratorium was not in place.
Emergency Discount Programs

- Our existing discount programs were not designed to support customers impacted by COVID-19
- Emergency programs targeted at customers who normally can pay their bills, but are faced with extraordinary financial crisis
  - Minimal documentation required
  - Online application
  - Income requirements shifted focus to income loss vs. maximum income amount
- Programs to support small businesses and nonprofits required to shut down or reduce operations

Emergency Discount Programs: Outreach Efforts

- New branding to unite all of our discount programs
- Most comprehensive outreach campaign we’ve ever done. Some examples:
  - Advertisements and interviews in Spanish, Chinese, and Tagalog newspapers, digital platforms, and/or radio
  - Partnership with the Citywide Emergency Operations Center to distribute SFPUC Bill Relief door hangers across the city
  - Bill Relief inserts in every SFPUC bill
- Collecting data on “how did you hear about us?” to gauge effectiveness of different outreach methods

“I am a single mom with two sons. My job has been furloughed with no return to work date”

“I have exhausted all savings paying rent and buying food. All credit cards are maxed.”

“Receiving a temporary reduction in my SF water bill would relieve an immense amount of stress. We are extremely grateful for the offer.”
What’s Next: Delinquencies and Shutoffs

- Need a strategy to help customers whose debts are piling up that isn’t mass shutoffs
  - Leading sessions with group of utilities across the country to share strategies
  - Working on a pilot program with Office of Financial Empowerment to test debt forgiveness and payment plan models
What’s Next: Revamp Discount Programs

• The emergency has given us a chance to pilot improvements to our discount programs
• Evaluating changes to existing programs so that when the emergency program ends, the existing programs can provide support to people still experiencing hardship
  • Online application
  • Changes to income thresholds
  • Tiered discount percentages based on ability to pay analysis
• Seeking sustainable funding options
